LONG BEACH, California — The Carpenter Performing Arts Center, located on the campus of California State University, Long Beach, presents a free film screening in our theatre of the drama All Day and a Night, followed by a Q&A with the director Joe Robert Cole, on Monday, September 19 at 6 p.m. Tickets are free and available online only at carpenterarts.org.

Part of the Carpenter Center's Voices for Justice Equity & Arts Series, and presented with CSULB's Department of Film & Electronic Arts, the critically acclaimed All Day and a Night stars Ashton Sanders (Moonlight) and Jeffrey Wright. The drama was released in May 2020.

About Joe Robert Cole

Joe Robert Cole is a filmmaker committed to crafting smart, rich, character-driven journeys. Along with Ryan Coogler, Cole co-wrote the Academy Award-nominated Black Panther for Marvel Studios, for which he received a NAACP Award. He was also a producer of American Crime Story: The People vs. OJ Simpson for which he received an Emmy nomination. Joe is attached to create and executive produce a new series adaptation of In the Heat of the Night for MGM and recently completed co-writing Black Panther 2.

About the Voices for Justice Series

Voices for Justice: Equity & Arts Series is an interdisciplinary exploration of systemic racism, social justice, activism, equality, and the arts. The events in this series are part of a cross-campus initiative to create a more inclusive and compassionate campus culture. The events in the series are free to students and to the community. Voices for Justice is a collaboration of the Division of Student Affairs with the Carpenter Center, as well as with Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Academic Affairs, FEED, the Department of Film and Electronic Arts, Dr. John Hamilton, Dr. Angela Locks, and Dr. Ray Briggs.
